

London Zoo

London Zoo has got more than 12,000 animals, including this Asian lion. In the past, the animals were in cages but now they live in spaces similar to their natural habitats.

An Asian lion

London Zoo was the first zoo to open a reptile house in 1849. The reptile house appears in the film Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone, when Harry talks to a snake.

Oxford Street

This is Oxford Street. The street is more than two kilometres long and has got more than 300 shops. Here you can buy clothes, shoes, CDs, DVDs, computer games, books, earrings, postcards and souvenirs of London.

In December, there are lots of decorations and Christmas lights in Oxford Street.