How Dream Comes True

Roy Robert Striker had a happy childhood in a loving family. He grew up in London, and he was the middle child in a family of five. Roy's father, Peter, was very interested in soccer and played for a local team. He was a keen supporter of Chelsea and hoped his son would play for them one day. Roy first started playing soccer at the age of three. Soon, older boys heard about his soccer ability and they used to take him to play in the local park every day after school. Then, after Roy's father got home, he would practice with Roy for hours until it was dark. Luckily, the sports teacher, Mr. Marshal, was crazy about soccer. He used to get angry when the team wasn't playing well. In high school they also practiced rugby and swimming, but Roy didn't enjoy them. He always put soccer first. One day after a soccer game, a man approached Roy. He was a soccer coach from Chelsea and he wanted Roy to try out for the club. "I remember feeling very excited and happy," Roy says.
