Qualifying customers

1 Discuss the questions with a partner.

- How do you qualify prospects?
- What separates hot prospects from timewasters?

2 01 Listen to three sales conversations (1–3) at a trade fair and choose the best summary (a–c) for each conversation.

- The customer can't make a decision about a purchase yet, but the salesperson manages to develop a possible opportunity.
- The salesperson identifies the customer's needs and buying intention quickly and develops a good opportunity for a sale.
- The customer has no intention of buying.

3 01 Listen again and discuss how effective you think each salesperson was. What would you do differently?

4 Use the prompts to write complete sentences.

- plan / update technology? Are you planning to update your technology?
- ask / how many / handsets you're changing? _____
- arrange / a time to talk more about it? _____

 - what the prospect's needs were
 - how you identified those needs.
- Roleplay the scenarios at the back of the book.

Student A: Turn to page 46.

Student B: Turn to page 49.

Grammar tip

Indirect questions

*Indirect questions start with phrases like these:

Can I ask / Could you tell me / Do you mind if I ask ...?

*The word order of the clause in indirect questions is as in statements.

What size is the building?

→ Can you tell me what size the building is?

*We use indirect questions to ask difficult questions and/or to sound more polite.

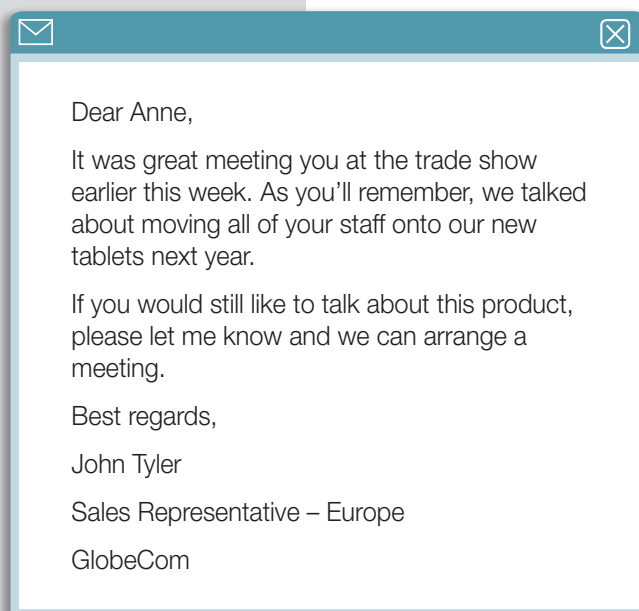

Following up

What should you do after you meet a new prospect? Use the bullet points to help you organize your ideas.

- Research prospect's company.
- _____
- _____
- _____
- _____

The follow-up email
