

The Unicorn

Written by Paula Aitcheson

Illustrated by Marisol Sarrazin

He's proud and tall,
All silver and white,
With a long tail and mane,
Wow, what a sight!

Some people say,
He looks like a horse.
But it's very clear
He's not, of course.

From his forehead
Comes a silver horn.
He isn't a horse —
He's a unicorn!

A white unicorn with a long, flowing mane of sparkling light and a single, glowing horn is running across a vibrant green field. The background is a clear blue sky with a few small birds. The unicorn's body is white with a pinkish hue on its neck and chest. The field is dotted with small red and yellow flowers.

To see one is lucky.
They're magic you know.
Maybe you'll see one,
I really hope so.

Some people say,
These creatures aren't real.
I think they're wrong —
What do you feel?

Did the unicorn live
On Earth long ago?
Or is he a story?
We may never know.