A generalization is a statement that is true in most situations or for most people. To identify a generalization, listen for the following signal words and phrases:

In general, ... / Generally, ... / As a rule, ... / Most of the time, ... / Most ... / A majority of people ... / Normally, ... / Usually, ... / Typically, ... / An overwhelming number of people ...

3 4.4 Complete the sentences with the signal words and phrases you hear.

- 1 _____, there are approximately 50,000 container ships sailing on our oceans.
- 2 _____, very large. The largest container ship today, the Ever Ace, is about 400 meters long and almost 62 meters wide.
- 3 _____, ships produce a huge amount of waste and sewage.
- 4 The IMO does what it can but _____ that is not enough.
- 5 _____ container ships these days carry the latest hi-tech technology to monitor air and waste-water quality.

4 Work with a partner. Restate each item in Exercise 3 using a different signal word or phrase.

E CRITICAL THINKING

Work in a group. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Have you ever seen a large container ship? Where? What was your impression?
- 2 Summarize the positions of the two speakers, Mr. Hasan and Mr. Ellis.
- 3 Which speaker, Mr. Hasan or Mr. Ellis, is more persuasive, in your opinion?
- 4 How can we balance the profitability of the shipping industry against the environmental damage it causes? What additional solutions can you suggest?

ACADEMIC SKILLS

INFERRING A SPEAKER'S ATTITUDE OR FEELING

When listening, you can often infer, or guess, a great deal about a speaker's attitude or feeling by listening carefully to their tone of voice and the way they change their word stress and intonation. Normally, English speakers stress words that convey important information, such as nouns, verbs, and adjectives. Stress means that the words are higher in pitch, louder, and pronounced with clearer vowels than function words such as prepositions and articles. Moreover, English sentences and Wh-questions usually end with a slight rise, and then a fall in intonation, whereas yes /no questions end with rising intonation. Speakers can vary these normal patterns to express their feelings. For example, big rises and falls in intonation can signal anger, enthusiasm, or other strong feelings. An even, low tone might mean that a speaker feels sad or worried. A rising intonation at the end of a statement can indicate uncertainty or disbelief. Contrast:

Normal stress and intonation: I lost my phone.

Anger: I LOST my PHONE

Sadness: I lost my phone.

- 1  4.5 Listen to the same sentence spoken three different ways. Decide how the speaker probably feels.

- Mr. Ellis's attitude toward the number 50,000 is ...

a outraged.	b excited.	c neutral.
-------------	------------	------------
- Mr. Hasan sounds ...

a angry.	b excited.	c uninterested.
----------	------------	-----------------
- Most likely, the host is ...

a neutral.	b depressed.	c astonished.

sociology (n) the study of society and the way people behave toward each other

Understanding priorities

D CLOSE LISTENING

A priority is something important that must be done first, or that requires more attention than anything else.

The following expressions are often used to describe priorities:

Priority number one is ...

Our number one priority is ...

Our top priority is ...

The most important thing to consider is ...

Our main concern is ...

4.8 Listen to part of Crowd management again and complete the notes with no more than three words in each blank.

PRIORITIES OF CROWD MANAGEMENT

General

Two main priorities:

1 = ¹ _____; prevent injuries + avoid accidents.

2 = Make sure the event is ² _____.

Planning

Top priority = knowing the # of people ³ _____.

Risk management

Identify ⁴ _____ (e.g., that hurt people / affect enjoyment) > Event organizer should reduce / correct risk.

Communication

Priority = clear visual ⁵ _____ is key—stops people getting lost,

⁶ _____, or injured.

Crowd flow

Keep people ⁷ _____ to prevent ⁸ _____.

E CRITICAL THINKING

Work in a group. Discuss the questions.

- 1 What are some examples of casual and conventional crowds?
- 2 What can cause a crowd to become dangerously emotional?
- 3 What actions can you take to be safe at an outdoor venue such as a sports stadium?

CRITICAL THINKING

Slippery slope

Slippery slope arguments claim that allowing something relatively harmless today (event A) will start a trend that ultimately results in something terrible or extreme happening later (event Z). For example:

If we don't stop them raising fees this year,
soon we'll be paying $1 million dollars a semester!

(event A) > (event Z)

This is illogical. There is no evidence that allowing the college to raise fees this year will ultimately lead to fees of $1 million a semester.

- 1  4.9 Listen to an extract from Crowd management. Complete the slippery slope argument.

Fans wave a ¹_____ or ²_____ the name of their favorite team / player.

People become emotional and jump out of their ³_____.

A ⁴_____ occurs, with hundreds of people running down stairs, climbing over fences, etc.

⁵_____ can happen and people can get ⁶_____.

- 2 Work with a partner. Look at the slippery slope argument in Exercise 1 and answer the questions.

- 1 What is the first event described?
- 2 What is the extreme event described?
- 3 Do you think the first event will necessarily lead to something so extreme?

- 3 Work in a group. Read the situations. Decide if they're reasonable arguments (e.g., the first event may well lead to the final event), or slippery slope arguments. Explain your answers.

- 1 If we let children play video games every night, their grades will get worse and worse, and they won't be able to get a good job when they're older.
- 2 Today you're ten minutes late, tomorrow it will be an hour. Before long you won't bother coming to work at all.
- 3 John often downloads movies illegally. Pretty soon he'll be stealing from his parents or robbing banks!

VOCABULARY DEVELOPMENT

Compound adjectives

A compound adjective is a single adjective formed from two or more words. Here are some common types:

- Compounds containing numbers:

six-foot fence, four-year program

- Compounds containing -ed or -ing participles:

far-reaching effects, fast-moving crowd, ill-equipped hospital

- Multiword compounds:

state-of-the-art equipment, up-to-date plan

- Adjective + noun compounds:

high-school student, high-risk situation, last-minute change

1 Complete the sentences with a compound adjective below.

decision-making high-priced internationally recognized middle-class slow-moving three-bedroom twelve-year-old

- 1 We were heartbroken when our _____ cat died.
- 2 The Fosters live in a _____ neighborhood, with many small homes and some apartments.
- 3 A _____ house is too small for a family with seven children.
- 4 The parking lot at the luxury hotel was crowded with _____ cars.
- 5 The committee's _____ process is slow and stressful.
- 6 The park is next to a _____ river.
- 7 The speaker is an _____ movie-maker.

2 Rewrite the sentences with a compound adjective.

- 1 Avi's commute lasts two hours.
Avi has a _____ commute.
- 2 Why does Eva need a cell phone that costs three hundred dollars?
Why does Eva need a _____ cell phone?
- 3 That is a good solution in the short term.
That's a good _____ solution.
- 4 Normally, the class behaves extremely well.
Normally it's an extremely _____ class.
- 5 English is spoken in several countries in east Africa.

- 9 In your culture, do people usually reveal their private information when they meet someone for the first time?
- 10 Do you usually plan what to wear, or do you choose items at random each morning?

ACADEMIC IDIOMS

(GET) ON BOARD

Going back to the 15th century, on board described someone on a ship. Later, when trains became common, station managers would blow a whistle as a train was leaving the station and shout, All on board! Now, on board and get on board also describe when someone is ready and willing to participate in an activity or idea.

We won't send in the final design until Jane gets on board with it.

SPEAKING MODEL

You are going to learn about complex passives, voicing concerns, and word stress in content and function words. You are then going to use these to assess and prioritize risks in a stadium and suggest solutions for each issue.

A ANALYZE

Work with a partner. Read the model and answer the questions below.

Alice: Thank you, everyone, for completing the risk management checklists for the upcoming soccer game. Thanks for getting on board so quickly. It looks like you've identified seven potential problems. Let's try to prioritize them and work on finding solutions for each one.

Mark: I'm a little concerned that there could be fights at the end of the game, like there were the last time these two teams played. Some people are bound to be upset if their team loses. So, I think preventing fights has to be our top priority.

Alice: I agree that this is a major issue. The board does not want to drag their feet on this, which is why they recommended hiring five additional security teams.

Mark: Good idea. At least one team should sit in each section of the stands, and additional teams should stand at the top and bottom of each staircase. If a fight breaks out, the teams can work together to pull people apart.

- 1 How many problems did the team identify in its risk assessment?
- 2 Which problem has top priority, according to Mark?
- 3 What solution does Alice propose?

B DISCUSS

Work with a partner. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Do you think Alice's suggestion will help to prevent fights?
- 2 What other steps can be taken to prevent fights from breaking out?
- 3 Have you ever attended an event where a fight broke out? How did the event organizers handle it? What did you do?

GRAMMAR

Complex passives

The passive voice (be + past participle) can be used with all simple, continuous, and perfect tenses:

The new seating area will be installed on Saturday. (simple future)

Previously, all maintenance was being managed externally. (past continuous)

Much of the signage on the first floor has been replaced. (present perfect)

Not all risks had been accounted for by the survey. (past perfect)

We can also use the passive voice with modal verbs:

Handrails should be installed throughout the venue.

All venues must be equipped with multiple emergency exits.

Note we use the preposition by to introduce the agent:

CCTV camera will be installed by CTFS on Monday.

Remember to use prepositions that collocate with the past participle:

The venue is comprised of five main seating areas.

All stands are equipped with safety barriers.

1 Complete the sentences with the correct form of the verbs below.

damage deal discuss injure install replace report spend

- 1 A large area of seating _____ in a fire last year.
- 2 More money must _____ on security around the venue.
- 3 Several people _____ by the time security arrived.
- 4 This section of the roof should _____. It's leaking.
- 5 Several cases of food poisoning _____ last year.
- 6 We're not sure yet. Lots of different options _____.
- 7 Better lighting _____ over the next few months.
- 8 This issue must _____ with immediately!

2 Rewrite these sentences with the correct form of the passive. Only include the agent if necessary.

- 1 They must install new lighting throughout the venue.
- 2 EAP has created a large new entrance on the south side of the stadium.
- 3 The board must address all potential hazards.
- 4 The company will replace all signage early next year.
- 5 The government has abandoned plans to update the health and safety guidelines.

Voicing and allaying concern

SPEAKING SKILL

We can use the following phrases to express concern:

I'm concerned / worried that there aren't enough emergency exits.

I think / believe / fear the roof in this area might be a major / serious issue.

We have to make sure (that) this area doesn't get too crowded.

We can't have wet floors / broken turnstiles. That's really dangerous / unsafe.

Sometimes we need to make other people feel less worried or frightened about something. This is called allaying concern. To allay someone's concern we usually acknowledge the issue, and explain how we intend to solve it:

You're right—this area is poorly lit, which is why we're installing new lighting next month.

The lack of exits is being taken into account and we hope to have a solution by Friday.

1  4.10 Listen and complete each sentence with no more than two words.

1 A: I'm _____ there aren't enough emergency exits in this area.

B: I agree that this is a major issue, and we will be discussing it in the next board meeting.

2 A: We _____ fire exits being blocked by unused sports equipment.

B: Absolutely! All unused sports equipment will be removed by the end of the week.

3 A: We must _____ that there are enough security guards on game day.

B: This is a top priority for us, which is why we have recruited 50 new security guards.

4 A: _____ overcrowding will be a serious problem in this area.

B: I agree, which is why a new entrance is being installed in the south stand.

5 A: I'm a _____ about the number of injuries on the stairs last year.

B: We're concerned too, which is why we've asked for a full risk assessment of that area.

2 Work with a partner. Take turns allaying the concerns listed below.

1 I'm worried that the signage on the first floor is confusing.

2 We need to make sure that everyone understands the health and safety concerns.

3 I don't believe that there are enough parking spaces for this many people.

4 We can't have food being prepared so close to the toilet block / restrooms.

PRONUNCIATION FOR SPEAKING

Word stress with content and function words

Words that convey meaning in English are called content words. They are normally stressed in sentences. Words that connect, replace, or show relationships are called function words. These are normally unstressed within sentences.

Content words	Function words
nouns (crowd, risk)	articles (a, the) verbs (rush, think)	prepositions (on, to, for) adjectives (crowded, wet)	pronouns (you, them) adverbs (very, extremely)	conjunctions (and, or) negatives (not, never)	be-verb (is, are) demonstratives (this, that)	auxiliaries (have, do)

- 1  4.11 Listen and complete the sentences with the content words you hear. Then listen again and repeat.

- I think the _____ is the biggest _____.
- It's dangerous to have _____ floors near the _____.
- I don't think there are _____.
- We need to _____ a handrail on the _____.
- I'm _____ about _____ in the east stand.

- 2  4.12 Identify the words you think are stressed in each conversation. Then listen and repeat.

- A: We can't have wet floors in this area.

B: You're right, that's really dangerous.
- A: The fence in this area isn't very strong.

B: That's true. Perhaps we should replace it.
- A: Replacing the roof should be our top priority.

B: I agree. The old roof is a danger to fans.
- A: The way to the toilets isn't well signposted.

B: I agree. It's confusing for fans.
- A: There's only one exit for all fans.

B: Yes, that's a big problem.

SPEAKING TASK

You work for a risk assessment company. Assess and prioritize the risks to public safety in a stadium and suggest solutions to each issue.

Brainstorm

Work in a group of four. Discuss the potential risks in the stadium.

Plan

Divide your group into two pairs.

Pair 1: Prioritize the risks you discussed and decide how to voice your concerns about each.

Pair 2: Think of solutions to the issues you discussed and decide how to allay concerns about each.

Speak

Work in the same groups.

Pair 1: Voice your concerns in order of priority, and discuss the proposed solutions.

Pair 2: Listen to each issue, and try to allay concerns by offering a solution.

Review

Work with another group. Explain the risks your group identified, and the solutions you agreed on. Use correct sentence stress as you present your ideas.

Reflect

Work with a partner. Discuss the questions.

- 1 Why do you think people enjoy attending events like sporting events or concerts in large stadiums?
- 2 Have you ever attended an event in a large stadium? What was it? Do you think the event managers did a good job of controlling the crowd and managing risks?
- 3 Do you think more people will become super-commuters in the future, or will technology make it easier for people to stay and work in one place?
